Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,

As the swift seasons roll!

Leave thy low-vaulted past!

Let each new temple, nobler than the last;

Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,

Till thou at last art free,

Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

*A*nd so we go on, leaving the past, dedicating the present to the future, and striving for new and greater heights. We have outgrown today. Our task now is to find our place in the tomorrow.

As we receive our diplomas we stand on the dividing line. On one side we are the Redford students who have been appreciating, learning, laughing, and living four years of happiness, but as we cross the line we find ourselves ready to follow the road ahead.

Walking down the road of life we glance backward at the vista of memories behind us, memories of four years at Redford, four years of work, study, and carefree good times.

Build Thee More Stately Mansions

THE proposed connecting unit would provide space for new offices, a library, and classrooms. Furthermore, there would be wide, heated passageways on three levels. This addition, that appeared so promising back in 1942, was delayed by the emergency demand for construction materials.

As far as the present is concerned, we can at least hope that the future will bring relief to Redford's crowded halls.

Thine Outgrown Shell

*Our school is beautiful. Lovely are her ways:
The trees that shade the spacious campus on spring days;
Her brown and golden leaves in fall are very fair;
The crystal branches gleaming in the wintry air.
Our school is beautiful within . . . The merry throng;
The laughter of young voices and the gushing song.
Fair faces glorified by hope and faith and love.
Our school is beautiful all other schools above.
The comrades gay, the friendships loyal and sincere;
The good times that in recollection will be dear.
The day will come when we must leave, but this we know
In memory more beautiful our school will grow!*

CORTLANDT W. SAYRES

Thy Low Vaulted Past

*The old wooden tunnel
The cold drafty tunnel
That hot dusty tunnel
Where all had to pass.*

It's the connecting link. It's the breezeway, the underground, the bottleneck, the refrigerator, the oven. Its temperamental moods surprise the freshman, astonish the sophomore, bewilder the juniors and flabbergast the seniors. It is here the channel of education moves ever from the old to the new. Here is regimentation of I. Q.'s where cruel, uncushioned two by fours lie in wait for him who steps out of line. Even the shingles bristle up as the hungry, thundering herd wedges itself through.

Our toast to the connecting link: In the process of constructive evolution, may it become the "missing link."

Senior Play

The night had arrived! The curtain rose; jittery souls were calmed backstage; the audience breathed a sigh of approval at the renovated set; and Nancy Williams as Pat Holmes began her march across the stage, to be stopped by "And just where do you think you're going, young lady?"

Remember? Can you ever forget! The Lovely Duckling, our senior play, was a rollicking success, thanks to ten weeks of strenuous rehearsal and thanks to Miss Cyretta Morford, play director. This year's single cast made up in quality what they lacked in quantity.

The Lovely Duckling was a three-act comedy written especially for high-school production. Pretty Pat Holmes planned to make life miserable for her new stepmother, who had flunked her in "gom-try." Pat, also stage struck and tempestuous, resented the fact that her younger sister, Gloria, alias Molly Metz, was a child movie star, while she considered herself as just an ugly duckling. The fascinating plot centered around Gloria's visit to the Holmes cottage and ended with a roar of applause from the audience.

The National Honor Society is composed of outstanding students from the 11A, 12B and 12A. To receive membership in this nationwide organization a student must not only show scholastic ability, but qualities of service to the school, good character, and leadership as well.

New members are introduced to the Society at a breakfast held in the lunchroom every term. At this time the new officers for the following term are elected.

The Student Council, Redford's student governing body, this year has initiated two main reforms.

At the beginning of the term the council made over the hall duty guard into a more efficient patrol. This was accomplished under council member, Nancy Williams, by delegating more responsibility to students and placing only one teacher in charge for each building.

The organization's latest work has been improving Redford's lawn. This activity consisted of spreading fertilizer and seed on the lawn's bare spots, which will result eventually in a smoother green carpet for Redford's campus.

The Minstrel Show was presented by Redford's music department for the benefit of the infantile paralysis fund.

Mr. Femby and Mr. Love stepped out of character as sedate pedagogues and portrayed a pair of delightfully versatile black faced comedians. With Dudley Bruton and Mickey Evans as end men, and Bob Book as interlocutor, the show went its merry and unpredictable way.

The girls trio, Blanchard, Boucher, and LeJuste, staged a superb performance. Mr. Femby's piano solo, everything from Gershwin to jazz was all the piano could render. Mr. Love's version of Rachmaninoff Blues was most unorthodox, as shown.

For days the halls echoed the refrains of the Spiritual Group's number You Call That Religion.

Dick Voss

The Spring Concert which was presented May 3 and 4 by the music department will be remembered by all as a huge success.

Jane Blanchard, outstanding senior vocalist, was the featured soloist and brought down the house with her rendition of My Friend.

Because of the many requests for their presentation, The Lost Chord and the Hallelujah Chorus, two Redford Concert favorites, were performed as the grand finale with all glee clubs participating.

The rifle team, made up of Bob Luscombe, Bill Simanikas, Bob Gaberson, Ken Hurlin, and Lloyd Cahill, took first place in the city and second place in the 6th Service Command in the Hearst Trophy match. This means that the fellows came in second out of 102 teams from four states. Steinmetz High School in Chicago was the only one with a higher score.

Then came big news: Larry Rossier, Redford senior and commander of Redford's ROTC battalion last semester, was made cadet brigadier general, the highest-ranking ROTC officer in the state and commander of the Detroit Division of the ROTC after a five-hour competitive examination in which fifteen other officers from twelve Detroit high schools participated. He is the second brigadier general in Redford's history. Phil Richey was made the first one in the entire country in 1941.

— ART —

Among the contests in which the art department distinguished itself were the Walker Poster Contest and the National Scholastic Competition. In the Walker Contest, Betty de Liguri won a ten-dollar and five-dollar prize; Kathleen Gillette won ten dollars and Shirley Taylor received an Honorable Mention.

Richard Ruff, eighteen year old Redfordite, won the twenty-five dollar second prize in the Scholastic Magazine national contest for high schools. Richard also won a scholarship to Rochester Institute of Photographic Technology for placing a portfolio of the most excellent photography in the exhibit. Kenneth Bell also received an Honorable Mention in this contest.

Glenn Page, the OUTPOST cartoonist, won an Honorable Mention in the Scholastic Contest for his cartoon entry. His prize was a set of Higgins Colored Inks.

The Adcraft Club, under the direction of Mrs. Irene Parker, has bedecked the school with many colorful posters advertising everything from the Senior Play to safety regulations.

The School as a Cyclotron

*In this atomic age I dedicate
 Myself to this one task,—all tasks above;
 To plant in plastic minds the hate of hate;
 To sow in youthful hearts the love of love;
 To make a cyclotron of every school
 Wherein, bombarded by protons of peace
 And electrons born of the Golden Rule
 God's super-atom power is given release:
 The beauty of the world's poetry;
 The hard-won lessons learned through history;
 Art, music, science, skills, geometry,—
 All these, bombarding molecules should be
 To set the force of youthful spirits free,
 To blast war and bring peace eternally.
 The bomb is NOT earth's greatest force, in truth;
 But character. We must plant that in youth.*

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow . . .

For more than 40 years The Detroit Edison Company has kept pace with the progress of education in the area it serves, providing both school and home with the electrical service that has been needed. Detroit Edison has furnished everyone with exactly the same dependable electric service. No one can buy an "exclusive" grade, for all are provided with the same high quality—the best we can provide.

Since 1903, many, many classes of students have made use of Edison services during their school years, and passing on into adulthood, have continued as Edison customers in their homes and businesses.

It has been Edison's goal to see to it that each new development in electrical comfort and convenience is made easily available to all. The anticipation of electrical demands, the fulfillment of them, economically and completely, will continue to be the goal of the Edison Company.

That is what Edison did yesterday, what it is doing today, and what it will be doing tomorrow.
